Course Builder

Faced with thousands of documents that may be relevant to any training request, and the ability to create or scan documents to PDF, Crane Tech programmers developed Course Builder. A revolutionary new system that puts manuals, tests, standards, client policies... everything, in view of the Project Director. Just drag and drop documents into a job file. Select a test questionnaire, and the answer guide and supporting documents are automatically included. A truly drag and drop system.

No longer does a project director have to memorize all the relevant documents, or search through files hoping that all the required documents are included in the client's job. It's what you need when and where you need it right on the desktop.

Need a program tomorrow? No problem! With course builder everything is built on-demand and printed from the desktop. Bringing together a training program has gone from hours to minutes, and accidentally forgetting an important reference or leaving out a critical document is a thing of the past.

Thought you changed that page... With all documents live one correction ensures that future documents are corrected. Not a single hard copy document is copied for your program. It's live and it's right now.

Don't forget that state specific standard... No worry, with course builder it knows where you are, and all relevant documents are available for your project director to add to your program. Drag and drop anything, anytime, to any job. It's automatically printed.

One test short... Not with Course Builder. It knows how many students to expect and even adds a couple extra just in case one gets damaged.

Our clients are believers and you will be too. Course Builder, only at Crane Tech. Go Live...
